EVIDENCE FLIMSY.

Japanese are So Far Confronted With But Feeble Testimony.

The preliminary examination of the Japanese who were arrested on the charge of murder, pursuant to the findings of the Coroner's Jury has been under way for several days before District Magistrate Hapai. The trials have been attended by a house full of interested spectators. The parties have secured the services of the Court stenographer, Miss Fracker, and all the proceedings are being taken verbatim. The attorneys for the prosecution are Smith & Parsons and Ridgway & Ridgway. The defense is represented by Wise & Ross and LeBlond & Smith.

Watanabe Masiji, was the first defendant tried. He was bound over by the Court.

The evidence presented by the prosecution in the preliminary trial of Watanabe was weak. There was little if any adduced that would indicate that a murder had been committed, and still less that would indicate that Watanabe is a murderer. There were more circumstances brought to light which point to suicide than there were that point to murder. Whatever may appear later on in the trial of the other defendants, it is plain that the whole machinery of court and police department, working under the direction of one mind, and with hostile Japanese aiding the prosecution at every corner, still, in the case of Watanabe, the Territory comes out of the preliminary hearing without having done more than fasten a vague suspicion upon the defendant.

The principal witness in the trial of Watanabe was Hosotani, a Japanese doctor, who at the time of the tragedy was within ten feet of the spot where it occurred. He was giving massage treatment to Funacoshi at the time the hot blood spurted from the gash in Kotihara's neck. The gurgling of blood caused the doctor to pause in his operations and both patient and doctor turned toward the door, which separated them from the small room in which the suicide or murderer's victim was breathing his last. While performing his professional duties there on the floor over the body of Funacoshi, Hosotani was in a position to hear and see all that transpired with reference to the deceased Japanese from at least half an hour before the stabbing took place until the officers came and took charge of the dead body. Hosotani is an important witness. If he will tell all he knows, no more and no less, a jury of twelve intelligent men will have no difficulty in determining whether it was suicide or murder. His testimony so far, shows the influence of the Sheriff and prosecution more than it does that of the defense. His testimony in Judge Hapai's Court shows that the witness has less fear of the alleged brigands, Watanabe and Funacoshi, than he has of the czar of Front street, the whilom czar of Maui.

While lomi-lomizing his patient, witness says supper was brought to the deceased by a waihini and that the waihini went into the little room inferentially sharing Kotihara's last supper. After the meal, witness said that Kotihara came out of the little room and went down stairs remaining a few minutes, then returning to the little room upstairs, in which the Sheriff claims he was kept a close prisoner by his kidnappers. A few minutes after Kotihara returned to the room, the massageur was startled by the gush and gurgle of blood.

The lomi-lomi business stopped when the strange noise was heard from the next room. Hosotani in his testimony explains the movements of the principal characters immediately following the gurgling. He stated that Funacoshi got up and went as far as the stairs and stood there. While he stood there witness heard a noise on the stairs and the opening of a window. After a few minutes waiting, the witness at the command of Funacoshi went to the door of the room from whence the gurgling came and opened it. He said on the stand: "The door would not open fully because the deceased was dead. Then I looked around inside; the window was shut. Then I looked around and saw the blood. The man was lying in a puddle of blood and I was so scared I ran away. Funacoshi pulled me back into the room and gave orders to give notice to the police station."

The defendant Watanabe according to the witness appeared on the scene some little time after the massage party had been broken up. He came into the room and said to the occupants, "He is dead." Upon cross examination it appeared that there was ample opportunity for the defendant to have seen the dead body through the door which had been left open.

The defendant was bound over by the Court and the trial of Funacoshi, charged with murder in the first degree proceeded.

Funacoshi, is said to be a very sick Japanese. His legs and feet are swollen and from all appearance he will be lucky if he lives long enough to be hung by Sheriff Andrews. His disease is said to be beri beri, the scourge of oriental folks. His rigorous treatment at the hands of jailer and sheriffs has not improved his physical condition. His physician, Dr. Nagai, has finally been allowed to see him. In the course of the trial Funacoshi sits with the lifeless apathy of an invalid and no trace of feeling or concern moves him.

GREET DELAREY AND BOTHA.

Boer Generals Are Tendered an Enthusiastic Ovation.

Cape Town, July 29.—Generals Delarey and Botha were given an ovation yesterday at Stellenbosch. They were taken to the town hall in two carriages drawn by six students. At a luncheon which followed the students acted as waiters.

General Botha, in a feeling address, said the day of surrender was the most painful of his life, but now that it had been done he prayed earnestly that his hearers should consider it God's will. Although Afrikaners nationality, in a manner, had been buried, it would remain the most important factor in the social life of South Africa. General Botha paid a tribute to former President Steyn's abilities as a statesman.

"Now, let us stop bothering ourselves about politics," said the General, "and try to make ourselves happy in South Africa, because we have no home elsewhere."

General Botha and Delarey will proceed to England, the United States and Canada, to collect funds for the relief of the widows and orphans of Boer soldiers.

The hero worship of the Boer commanders was strikingly illustrated at the marriage of General Delarey's daughter to his secretary, Ferreira, at the Dutch Reformed edifice. The approaches to the edifice were packed and the congregation cheered General Botha, Dewet and Delarey as they entered the church. Dewet and Delarey were his most enthusiastic admirers. When the bridal party appeared the congregation rose and cheered until the minister threatened to stop the ceremony or clear the church.

STRUGGLE ON ISTHMUS.

Hundreds Fall in Battle Between Insurgents and Federal Troops.

Panama, August 1.—The peace commissioners who left here July 29th on the British steamer Cana to visit the revolutionary general, Herrera, near Agua Dulce, returned to Panama at noon today. They stated that they were unable to fulfill their mission because a very severe engagement between Herrera's forces and the Government troops had been in progress since Tuesday, July 29th, when the revolutionary forces began to attack Agua Dulce.

At 5 o'clock Thursday morning the best battalions of the revolutionary forces attacked the Government intrenchment with fierce courage. The slaughter of the revolutionists is said to have been excessive and barbarous. That same afternoon a white flag was raised in their camp and they asked for an armistice during which they could bury their dead. This was granted. The losses of the rebels up to Wednesday, July 30th, were reported at over 200, while the Government forces had eight men killed and eleven wounded. General Moreno, one of the peace commissioners who returned today, says the intrenchments at Agua Dulce are masterpieces of military art.

BOERS TO BE JUSTLY TREATED.

Chamberlain Says Their Old Traditions Will Be Preserved.

London, July 29.—Colonial Secretary Chamberlain appeared in the House of Commons this afternoon for the first time since his recent accident. His appearance was marked by a speech which won the applause of even such opponents as Henry Labouchere. Mr. Chamberlain dealt comprehensively with the past and future of South Africa. "We have no intention," he declared, "that the Boers should be robbed of their old traditions. We desire that they should reserve all the best characteristics of their race and hope they will shake hands with us, thus securing property in South Africa under the flag which protects different races and different religions."

"But we are not going to allow the result of the war to be undermined," said Mr. Chamberlain, "by intrigues carried on by nominally constitutional means."

Regarding the future status of South Africa, the Colonial Secretary said the Imperial Government has established a crown colony in the strictest sense. The next step would be to add a nominated official element. Thereafter there would be an elected official element and then nothing but circumstances and time would separate the new colonies from full self-government the ultimate goal of their ambition.

LATE KING HUMBERT HONORED.

Victor Emmanuel and Dowager Queen Margaret Join in Service.

Rome, July 29.—King Victor Emmanuel and the Dowager Queen Margaret visited the Pantheon today and joined in a solemn service in memory of King Humbert, who was killed two years ago today. The service was strictly private. After this service there was a public one. Many wreaths were placed on the tomb, among them one sent by former United States Ambassador William F. Draper, which was prominently placed. The crowd present was very large, and, as the heat was intense, many persons were prostrated.

King Victor Emmanuel, accompanied by Signor Prinetti, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, will start for Berlin August 22nd to visit Emperor William.
